The first of these is the fact that the human mind is not a blank slate at birth.
 It is filled with a vast amount of information that has been passed on to it by its ancestors. This information is stored in the form of habits, customs, and traditions. It is this information that shapes the way we think and behave. It is the foundation upon which we build our lives. Without it, we would be lost and unable to function in the world. It is the most precious inheritance we have. We must protect it and pass it on to future generations.
 Only then can we ensure the survival of our species.

The second of these is the fact that the human mind is not a passive receiver of information. It is an active participant in the process. It filters the information it receives and interprets it in its own way. This means that two people can experience the same event and have different reactions to it. This is because their minds are processing the information differently. This is a good thing, for it allows us to adapt to our environment.
 It is the source of our creativity and our ability to solve problems. It is the most powerful tool we have. We must use it wisely and responsibly.
 Only then can we make the most of our lives.
